

30th Infantry Division

The 30th "Old Hickory" Division was inducted into federal service on 16 September 1940, at Fort Jackson, South Carolina. At the time of its activation the National Guard division was organized in a World War I-era "square" configuration consisting of two infantry brigades, the 59th and the 60th Infantry Brigades, and the 55th Field Artillery Brigade. Each Infantry brigade consisted of two infantry regiments, the 118th and the 121st Infantry Regiments, and the 117th and 120th Infantry Regiments, respectively.

On 22 November 1941, prior to its reorganization as a "triangular" division, the 121st Infantry Regiment was relieved from the assignment to the division. On 16 February 1942, the division's designation changed from the 30th Division to the 30th Infantry Division. Six months later, on 24 August 1942, the 118th Infantry Regiment was relieved from its assignment to the division. A week later, on 1 September 1942, the 119th Infantry Regiment was assigned to the division. Thus, by late 1942 the division had been reorganized into a "triangular" division built around just three infantry regiments, the 117th, the 119th and the 120th Infantry Regiments.

Following service in the European Theater of Operations, the division was inactivated on 24 August 1945, at Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

In 1942 a typical infantry regiment consisted of a headquarters and band, a headquarters company, a service company, an anti-tank company, a cannon company, and three infantry battalions.

In March 1943 the basic infantry regiment was reorganized to include a headquarters, a headquarters company, a service company, an anti-tank company, and three infantry battalions.

Each of the three infantry battalions consisted of a headquarters and headquarters company, three rifle companies and a heavy weapons company. Within each regiment, the 1st Battalion consisted of Companies A through D, the 2d Battalion consisted of Companies E through H, and the 3d Battalion consisted of Companies I through M (there was no Company J).

Attached / Unidentified Units

Attached units supported the 30th Infantry Division at some point during the war, but were not organic to the division. Unidentified unit means that the veteran's survey indicated service with the 30th Infantry Division, but did not provide sufficient information regarding the specific subordinate unit.
